MAIN STREET WIDENING RESUMED

Council Names Three To Confer On Wading Pool;
New Firemen's Ordinance

A city crew of workmen began work Tuesday morning on another unit in the project for widening narrow portions of Main Street and the scene of the present work is immediately west of Clay Street on the north side of the state highway.

Councilman Philip Frost, street commissioner, in announcing the plans to start work to the Monday night meeting of the council said that the street line will be set back a maximum width of six feet on the north side of the street, at the line between the A. H. Greeley and Sigwart properties. The new street line will taper to a point with the present street line at Clay Street.

City Attorney Richard Barry presented to the council papers representing the final acquisition of rights of way across the Sigwart property and across the E. A. Brewster property. The necessary property was required at a cost of approximately fifty cents per square foot.

Russell Anderson, works superintendent, said the project will cost about $1,800 and that it is paid for out of the city's share in the state gas tax revenues. He hoped that the major work might be concluded this week.

The council meeting was visited by a delegation headed by Marie Sharp, of the Soroptimist Club, and Ben E. Larson, president of the Lions Club, interested in furtherance of a wading pool project at the city playground. Mrs. Sharp said the Soroptimist Club has $150 to contribute to the project. Mr. Larson said the Lions have a like amount and suggested on behalf of the committee that the council appropriate $500 from the water fund each year for the project and that the $500 for this year be appropriated immediately, to be used with the funds the clubs now have to build the wading pool.

Mr. Larson suggested that the wading pool is the main objective and that it could be obtained on that basis almost immediately, with landscaping, gardening and other improvement associated with the (Continued on Page Three)

Officers Seek Ione Escapes

Preston Youths Suspected
In Theft Of Two Cars,
Flight Into County

The state highway patrol and county officers of Amador and El Dorado Counties united Monday night in a search for two escapees from the Preston School of Industry at Ione, one of whom was thought to be armed, who were suspected of the theft of two different automobiles.

Placerville police co-operated in an unsuccessful effort to "corral" the two suspects on roads near the Amador-El Dorado County line.

According to Sheriff George M. Smith, one of the boys is believed to be Virgil Neil, who escaped from Preston with three other boys four days ago. The other three were retaken.

Monday, Charles Nelson escaped, and Monday evening a 1934 Chevrolet, license 6-C-790, was reported stolen in Ione.

About 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, a Mrs. O'Neil, who identified herself as a Sacramento resident on an outing at Outingdale, reported the theft of the O'Neil family car from their summer camp at Outingdale. The car was a Chrysler sedan, license 07-M-847.

In the hope that the car thieves, believed to be the Preston escapees, might be headed off and corralled, peace officers endeavored to block all roads from Ione and Plymouth to Placerville and Jackson and eastward to Hope Valley and Lake Valley.

If the car thieves were caught within the net, they were able to elude capture, a circumstance which Sheriff Smith states is not unlikely, since Nelson is known to have an intimate knowledge of roads in up-per Amador and El Dorado Counties.

Hikes 20,600 Miles

Completing a 20,600-mile hiking trip, Julio Cesar Berrizbeitia, 19-year-old Boy Scout, is pictured as he arrived in Washington, D. C., four years and one month after leaving Caracas, Venezuela. He brought with him a letter from the chief executive of his country to President Roosevelt.

SCOUTS OPEN CASH DRIVE

Knowles A. Ryerson, Dean
Of Farm College, Speaker
For Kick-Off Dinner

The annual solicitation of funds in support of the Boy Scout program in El Dorado County opens at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Ivy Hotel with John A. Raffetto, Jr., finance chairman, playing host to an invited group of civic leaders and co-workers in the campaign.

The guest speaker for the meeting is Dean Knowles A. Ryerson, of the Branch College of Agriculture of the University of California at Davis.

"The value of Scouting is generally understood and appreciated," Mr. Raffetto said. "It is significant, I think, that those who know Scouting best seem to appreciate its values the most."

"Scouting is one of the great character building activities for the young people of the world."

"Our finance campaign in El Dorado County is a solicitation of funds in support of the Golden Empire Council of Boy Scouts, of which El Dorado County is a part and in which we share a financial responsibility with the other counties embraced by the council."

"We have no quota in the sense that we have a definite amount to be raised. The only quota we have is that it is incumbent upon El Dorado County residents who appreciate the values of Scouting to contribute their fair share to a continuance of the Scout program."

"It is to be hoped that all, when interviewed, will contribute what they feel they can reasonably afford to the support of this work."

Whereabouts Of Banners Of Fire Companies Sought

Does anyone know what has become of the silk banners used by Confidence Engine Company No. 1, and Neptune Engine Company No. 2, in Placerville?

Albert Simon had supposed they were in the care of the Placerville Volunteer Fire Department, but when he recently sought information on them he found he was in error.

Mr. Simon would like to hear from anyone who knows something about what has happened to either of the banners.

RUSSIA CLAIMS NAZI ADVANCE IS CHECKED

Only German Claim For 16th Day Of Battle Is For Progress In South

By UNITED PRESS

Russia reported the German blitzkrieg offensive had been checked with terrible losses on most of the eastern front today and the Nazi high command avoided any claim of gains against the Red army.

Only on the southern or Bessarabian front did the Germans, through the official news agency DNB, report that Axis forces were moving forward to the Ukraine after breaking Russian resistance west of the Dniester river. Budapest claimed the big river had been crossed.

Only on the Lepel sector of the central front guarding Moscow did the Russians indicate that the enemy might be striking with fresh power. There, the Moscow communiqué said, the Germans were "countering" a Red army counter-attack. Elsewhere on the road to Moscow and Leningrad the Nazis were reported hurled back in all attempts to cross the Dnieper river or strike through the Ostrov front.

But on the 16th day of the war, both sides emphasized "fierce fighting" continued on all fronts along the Stalin line defenses and the outcome appeared dependent on ability to bring more and more reserves into the conflict.

Great Britain pointed as never before at the German war industries and other targets in the Reich and in occupied territory. Following up a record-breaking night air bombing attack on eight German cities, the Royal Air Force sent its biggest daylight force of bombers (Continued on Page Three)

Navy Moves In On Iceland

Washington Report Says
President Took Step As Hemisphere Defense Move

WASHINGTON, (U.P.)—President Roosevelt took over the military protection of Iceland after reports reached him that the German general staff was considering attacking it to obtain a base from which to control North Atlantic shipping lanes, a usually well informed congressional source said today.

United States naval forces were gradually supplanting a British garrison defending the independent island republic which is 180 miles from Greenland, 800 miles from the Norwegian wing of Germany's war front, and 2500 miles from New York. It was a partial fulfillment of President Roosevelt's fears that all the Atlantic outposts of the western hemisphere, including the Azores and the Cape Verde Islands, would have to be taken over as defensive measures.

The report of German plans to have reached Mr. Roosevelt said also that the Germans planned another strong base at Dakar, French West Africa, and from it and Iceland hoped to sink or capture 80 per cent of the Atlantic shipping enroute to Egypt and the British Isles.

Company D Has Use Of $550,000 Laundry At Camp San Luis Obispo, Open July 15

Plant, Employing 237 Workers Per Shift,
Will Launder 32 Pieces Per Week For
Enlisted Men At Charge Of $1.50 Per Month

CAMP SAN LUIS OBISPO, (Special)—It's going to be a big wash!

Some 700,000 pieces of laundry a week are expected to go through the wash at the new Quartermaster Laundry here, now being warmed up and tested. Engineers expect the $550,000 plant to be in full operation by July 15.

It will offer employment to hundreds of workers, about 80 per cent of whom will be women.

Individual bundles for the 20,000 officers and enlisted men of the 40th Division in which Company D, 115th Engineers is included, as well as linen for the entire command and the Station Hospital, will pass through the machines. The laundry will be operated under Major J. C. Gates, Camp Quartermaster, with Lieut. William L. Jacobs, in charge.

The laundry will employ 237 workers per shift. It is probable that at least two shifts, and possibly three will be needed to meet the camp requirements.

As for labor supply, the California Department of Employment at San Luis Obispo is cooperating with army authorities in the employment job. Hillis Hooper, local manager, is providing lists of applicants for the hiring, now under way.

The men and women will be employed on a temporary civil service basis, and will earn from $1.00 to $3.00 per year. A 44-hour week will be in effect.

The laundry will occupy a modern industrial building of the saw-tooth type, providing 50,000 square feet of floor space. The saw-tooth architectural pattern affords ample vertical skylighting.

The laundry is provided with the most modern of equipment: Four eight-roll flat work ironers; one six-roll ironer; 12 extractors; 28 washing machines; 138 presses; 20 marking machines; two handkerchief ironers; three 500-horsepower boilers for providing steam for the plant; and three water softeners with a capacity of 1,300,000 gallons per regeneration period.

A fully equipped lunch room will be provided for the workers.

The laundry will handle individual enlisted men's bundles at a rate of $1.50 per month. The soldiers will be entitled to 32 pieces per week at that rate. Officers' bundles will be laundered on a piece rate basis, and all flat work and hospital work for the Camp Quartermaster will be done there.

The construction and installation of the machinery has been going forward smoothly. Captain N. B. Smith and Captain Lin Shields, of the office of D. P. Lane, constructing quartermaster, have been supervising the job.

BASIC BUILDING AT CAMP SAN LUIS OBISPO NEARLY COMPLETE; REMAINING WORK IS TOPPED BY $2,500,000 DAM PROJECT

CAMP SAN LUIS OBISPO, (Special)—The basic camp construction job at Camp San Luis Obispo—housing, utilities, roads and streets for 20,000 troops—is virtually 100 per cent complete, it was announced here by Maj. D. P. Lane, Construction Quartermaster. Building activity has not stopped, however. A crew of more than 1,100 civilian workmen, soon to be increased, is going ahead on new projects authorized by the War Department to further improve the camp.

The biggest new job is the $2,500,000 dam project on the upper Salinas river, being built by the L. E. Dixon company, camp contractors.

The new jobs include: $2,500,000 dam, including pipe lines to the camp; 20 miles of access roads to ranges and training areas near the camp; 143 company day rooms for soldier recreation; nine chapels; 10 officers day rooms; officers club; quartermaster motor repair shop; four new mess halls, latrines, etc., for anti-tank companies; tent theatre; post exchange warehouse and office; vehicle housing sheds.

Another project for which authorization is expected soon is for a $77,000 field house, to provide a big floor and adequate seating for indoor events.

The frame structures are going up fast, and contractors hope to complete all presently authorized projects by September 1, it was announced by Major Lane.

The road job, construction of 20 miles of access roads, is well under way. Lieut. Irving Parker is supervising the job, and about eight miles of rough grading have already been pioneered. Tractors and carryalls of the L. E. Dixon company are busy. The access roads will tie together the various ranges—rifle, machine gun, mortar, anti-aircraft, etc.—in the training area.

COUNTY TAXES 98 PCT. PAID

Delinquency But 2 Pct.;
Placerville Shy Only
8 Tenths Of One Pct.

The county-wide delinquency in county taxes for the year 1940-41 is .0201.

This is according to figures made public Tuesday by Tax Collector W. F. Truscott who cited Live Oak, Penobscot and Pigeon Creek school districts as "white spots" in the county tax collection map. None of these districts has any delinquency.

Within Placerville city limits, the delinquency in county taxes is .0085; at Camino .01. In Placerville school district outside the municipal limits the delinquency is five per cent.

Lake Valley school district has a delinquency of 2.4 per cent. El Dorado school district has a 2.4 per cent delinquency and in Mountain district, the delinquency is three per cent.

The figure for the county as a whole reflects favorably upon the sound economic status of the people of the county and, further, is an excellent endorsement of the attention given to his official duties by Tax Collector Truscott.

SUPERVISORS CONSIDER DEFENSE

Appointment Of County
Council Was Expected
At Board Meet Tuesday

The Board of Supervisors was to consider Tuesday afternoon — and it was expected they would consider the matter favorably—an ordinance creating a county Council of Defense, to serve in an advisory capacity.

The ordinance had been prepared by District Attorney Henry S. Lyon upon the basis of suggestions developed at a conference in the office of the Attorney General at San Francisco on June 20th, at which there were present representatives of the supervisors' association, and of the California League of Municipalities.

The ordinance provides for the creation of the county Council of Defense, to serve under the state Council of Defense, which in turn serves under the National Council of Defense.

The council would be created by the terms of the ordinance as consisting of one member of the Placerville city council, one member of the Board of Supervisors, the sheriff, the district attorney, the Supervisor of El Dorado National Forest, and the county health officer.

Upon the recommendation of this group, the Board of Supervisors would appoint such additional members as needed not exceeding fifteen. The ordinance also provides for the appointment of a civil liberties committee under the Council of Defense, of which the sheriff would be chairman.

Mr. Lyon presented the Council of Defense plan to the city council at its meeting Monday evening and the council members informed the district attorney that for the purposes of El Dorado County and Placerville, one Council of Defense,

Wading Pool Parley Set

Lions, City, Soroptimists
To Consider Project;
Bankamerica Man Speaker

The projected wading pool for children at the city playground moved a notch nearer realization Tuesday when George E. Paugsted, chairman of the Lions Club committee on the project, reported that a conference on the wading pool is scheduled for Thursday between committees on the project named by the Lions, the Soroptimists and the city council.

The committee, it is understood, will seek the immediate goal of a wading pool, deferring such things as landscaping and other facilities until, perhaps, another year.

The Lions had as their guest speaker Sydney S. Clark, of San Jose, public relations manager for the Bankamerica Company, an investment concern. Mr. Clark was accompanied to Placerville by Philip Mills, northern California division manager for the company, and Jack Curran, El Dorado-Placer County representative for the company.

The speaker discussed investment banking and its importance in the building of the nation spanning the past 160 years. He gave an interesting review of the liquidation of English securities, a discussion on priorities in steel as they will affect all citizens, the importance of labor in the defense program and pointed out the excellence of the Defense Bonds offered for sale by the government, for those interested in investments.

Mr. Clark was presented to the club by Lion E. Ogden Hook. Edwin C. Browne, a past president of the club was a guest at the meeting and Lion President Ben Larson announced a director's meeting to be held Thursday evening.

At a costume ball for Robin Godine, rich society girl, she and her current favorite, Earl Gunder, entertain her guests with a frenzied exhibition dance which wins wild applause. Robin, flushed with triumph, is leaving the dance floor, when she suddenly stops short, staring at a strange young man who is looking at her with the sternest, most disapproving pair of blue eyes she has ever seen.

CHAPTER II

FOR only a moment, the strange young man's eyes held Robin's. Then, with obvious scorn, he turned his head away.

Robin wanted to scream at him, "How dare you disapprove?" but, instead, she suddenly felt ashamed of having made an exhibition of herself. She tossed her head impatiently—she must be losing her mind, feeling this way about a stranger! Who was he, anyway?

"A girl like you spells poison to a poor young man trying to get along," he told her.

denly felt ashamed of having made an exhibition of herself. She tossed her head impatiently—she must be losing her mind, feeling this way about a stranger! Who was he, anyway?

Then, she saw that he was with Bettina Bradley, a pretty society reporter to whom Robin had taken a great liking. Neither he nor Bettina was in costume.

Bettina now stepped up to Robin. "I crashed the gate, Robin."

writers and the despair of columnists. You've read all about her: startling beauty, escapades, and impulsiveness! Couple those with the fact that she never follows prediction and you can understand why she's precious copy."

"I suppose so," Cary Craig answered, his smile now gone.

"She's here, she's there, she's everywhere!" Bettina went on gaily. "The glamour girl of the society pages! Been abroad six times and engaged seven."

"I'm nominated for the next dance," Earl drawled. "Only, this time, maybe she'll fool everyone and actually get married. She thinks I'll be tolerant about boy friends, an early divorce and that sort of thing."

"How terrible!" Bettina struck a dramatic pose.

Robin, catching Cary Craig's eyes, again saw disgust in their expression. She felt that she must defend herself.

"Earl is just being silly," she declared. "As for those engagements, I hate to hurt people's feelings, so I just say 'yes,' knowing Daddy will say 'no.' That leaves him to do all the arguing, engagements like that are fun."

Cary turned to Bettina as though the matter of how many times Robin had been engaged was of no concern to him.

"Shall we dance?" he asked.

But Robin suddenly stepped between them, her eyes flaming.

"You," she said angrily to Cary, "dance with me!"

Bettina gave her a surprised look, then laughed.

"It's all right, Cary. Manners are not necessary to pamper darlings whose every wish finds swift fulfillment. Despite which Robin is one of the sweetest, sincerest girls I have ever known."

She turned to Earl.

"You," she commanded in perfect imitation of Robin "dance with me!"

Earl laughed and swung her onto the dance floor.

Cary did the same with Robin but he did not laugh. Robin looked up into a face set in stern, rigid lines.

AFTER a moment, she said so coolly, "Do you always dance this way?"

"You mean—"

"Ch. so stiff and stand-offish I won't bite Mr. Craig!"

He did not reply, but he did draw her a tiny bit closer.

"Why don't you like me?" she suddenly demanded.

"You've a reputation," Cary said quietly, "of making men fall in love with you and then dropping them. You are just as beautiful as the papers say and I suppose just as reckless. All of which spells poison to a poor young man trying to get along."

"Is that so?" Robin laughed.

"What do you think?"

"I think that you are very rude," Robin declared, then added daintily, "But I do wish you'd smile because I—I—like dimples."

She had tilted her head back. Her lips were pursed in a provocative smile. No man in the world could resist Robin when she looked that way. The lights which had been blinking and changing, now dimmed, died out.

AND then—Robin felt Cary's lips on hers in a kiss which choked the breath in her throat. Little silver stars stabbed through the darkness of her closed eyes.

"Oh!" she whispered as Cary's lips at last lifted from hers. "I think I'm falling in love!"

The lights came on. Cary looked down at her.

"Do you really think you meant that?" he asked sarcastically.

"I did—do mean it!" Robin said fiercely.

His answer was scathing. "You are really talented, aren't you? Almost as good an actress as you are a dancer."

project being undertaken later as a progressive project.

Mayor Charles Molinari thanked the group for their visit and said the council would take up the matter later in the evening, which it did. Discussion resulted in creation of a committee including Councilmen Molinari, Frost and Howard Lewis, to confer again with the committee for the clubs.

Earl Winn and Don Westernman conferred with the council relative to what the council will do regarding taking over a street on which they propose to erect homes in the Bungalow Terrace vicinity. The council indicated its intention ultimately to accept the street.

District Attorney Henry S. Lyon met with the council to explain the form of organization of a Council of Defense. Mr. Lyon said that there is a National Council of Defense being formed also in every county, and that a Council of Defense is being formed also in every county.

There is provision in the organization plan for a Council of Defense in every incorporated city in any county, and Mr. Lyon inquired of the city council whether the councilmen feel that a Council of Defense should be formed in the city, with another Council of Defense for the entire county.

When it appeared that the city could be represented on a county Council of Defense, the councilmen agreed that local needs would best be served through a county-wide council, whereupon the mayor appointed Howard Lewis, fire commissioner, to be a member on behalf of the city in the county Council of Defense.

Applications were received and read from George Hards and A. G. Adler, Jr., seeking appointment as city police officers. They were filed. The resignation of D. W. LeBourveau, effective as of July 15th, was accepted and City Attorney Richard Barry was asked to prepare an appropriate resolution of appreciation for LeBourveau's seven years of service as a police officer.

The council approved plans of the Soap Box Derby Committee to erect a starting ramp for the race on July 20, on Lower Main Street, and formally approved the appointment of Orville Reinohl as a city police officer.

Fire Chief Mark Tetrauld reported four grass fires for June with no damage. The department also had conducted supervised burning on eight pieces of property in connection with the city-wide weed clean-up campaign.

Police Judge E. E. Creed's report showed $180.35 in fines collected for June.

The council arranged to confer with the irrigation district relative to the water district's proposal to charge for water used at the city swimming pool. The council had un-

This is one of a series of illustrated articles designed to inform the public of the progress being made by American industry in providing the weapons of national defense. The facts presented have been gathered in surveys of leading defense industries and from other authoritative sources.

Industry's 12-year record is effectively told in the above illustration which is based on a series of charts from Modern Industry magazine.

It is a full story, a story of accomplishment that tells of higher standards of living for the American people at less cost.

In the field of industrial production, for example, it is shown that despite the extreme difficulties of the past lean decade, industry in 1940 made more goods for more people than ever before. And today, industrial output is 40 per cent ahead of the high 1929 level.

And for those goods consumers were paying less—this despite the improvements in quality brought about by technical research, industrial ingenuity, and a constantly better standard of workmanship.

Understood that the water was being picked up again by the district and used for irrigation by which the city would be billed only for water used in filling the pool once a week.

Councilman A. H. Greeley presented the city with an easement granting a right of way for a storm drain across his property.

Councilman Howard Lewis offered for first reading an ordinance providing for the re-establishment of the Placerville Volunteer Fire Department. It was apparent that the ordinance was drafted after conferring with the firemen and after re-

The charts show that the American workman received more in "real" wages. While prices were reduced, pay in dollars was not only maintained but increased. It is also pointed out that during this period government got considerably more in taxes, but the stockholders got less.

Then, showing the picture of output per man hour. Modern industry goes on to say:

"As industry grids for all-out production, its efficiency—the goods produced by one man working one hour—stands at an all-time high. More and better machinery, better man-power all contributed to the result. . . . And now industry is challenged to be even more efficient, to do even greater things—to produce still more goods at lower cost, to pay still higher wages, to pay still more taxes, to find some way of giving the stockholder his share."

PERU, ECUADOR ACCUSING EACH OTHER, RENEW BORDER WARFARE

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (UP)—Ecuador and Peru engaged in undeclared war along their frontier today, shattering the peace of the western hemisphere and frustrating the efforts of the United States, Argentina and Brazil to mediate their century-old border dispute.

The fighting began on the frontier Saturday, was intensified yesterday, continued today. Artillery and airplanes were engaged. The Ecuador government, in a detailed statement, charged that Peruvian forces had attacked Ecuadorian border guards, invaded Ecuadorian territory, and had been the aggressors throughout.

The Peruvian government charged in Lima, the capital, that Ecuadorian forces had been the aggressors throughout and said Peruvian forces had fought defensively only.

viewing previous ordinances and existing ordinances.

The most recent ordinance provides for a twenty-five man department, all of whom shall reside in the city, and to whom as a unit the city will pay $100 per month. It is divided in the department as the department wishes, or to be used otherwise by the department as they wish.

The city may discontinue the arrangement at any time. Officers of the department will be elected each January and shall take office upon approval of the council. In the event of a vacancy in the elective staff, the next ranking officer shall move up to fill the vacancy except that in the case of vacancies in the office of chief, assistant chief or secretary-treasurer, an immediate election within the department shall be held.

Department members must participate in at least twelve drills per year and the department shall have a grievance committee of four, of which the fire commissioner on the city council shall be a fifth member and chairman.

The council approved the subdivision plat of R. A. Black in Upper Placerville and then adjourned to meet as a Board of Equalization. There was no immediate business before the board, which continues in session from day to day.

Taxpayers wishing to bring matters before the board of Equalization have been asked to state their contentions in writing.

Prowlers Merely Hungry
DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Just something to eat was all that was needed to satisfy the prowlers who broke into the home of L. S. Vaughn. Part of the list of things he found missing are: A dozen eggs, two cans of tomatoes, two boxes of strawberries, three cans of pineapple, a head of lettuce, half a pound of butter and three cans of peaches.

Russia Claims Nazis Halted

and fighters roaring over enemy soil again.

The British were suffering heavy air losses in this offensive, totalling probably 15 planes last night and today, while the Germans said they downed 28 British planes last night and today. The higher losses indicated the increased British striking power but it might also mean that some Luftwaffe strength had been pulled back from the eastern front to face the British.

As the Russo-German conflict moved into its 17th day this was the picture presented by the rival communiques:

Finnish front: Russians report Finnish-German drives stalled by Red army counter-attacks; Finns admit fierce Russian opposition encountered in drives on Salla and Kandalaksha; Hango under bombardment; Russian transports en route from Tallinn to Kronstadt reported sunk.

Central front: Russians claim all Nazi attempts to cross Dnieper hurled back; big Red counter-attack in progress at Lepel; two Nazi battalions and 35 tanks destroyed at Bobruisk; fierce fighting at Polotsk; attempts by Germans to cross Dvina fail.

Southern sector: Germans driving hard toward Novograd Volynsk and Mogilev Podolsk but Soviet troops reported to have checked advances; German spokesmen hint that Stalin line has been penetrated in this area due east of Luck and that 20 pillboxes and bunkers in the fortifications system have been captured.

The German high command limited itself to the cryptic statement that "operations are proceeding according to plan."

Sauce for Boiled Fish

By BETSY NEWMAN

BOILED fish is a delicate dish that goes very well with summer meals. The sauce to serve is often a question. I like drawn butter gravy which contains chopped parsley and lemon juice, but a tomato creole sauce is also a very good choice. It goes equally well with chopped steak.

Today's Menu
Boiled Fish Tomato Creole Sauce
Green Beans
French Fried Potatoes
Radishes and Watercress
Raspberry Mousse
Wafers Coffee

Tomato Creole Sauce
1 tbsp. butter 2 tbsps. finely chopped green pepper
2 tbsps. onion, chopped fine 1/4 cp. water
1 can tomato soup

Cook green pepper and onion in butter until soft, add soup and water and heat. This makes approximately 1 1/2 cups sauce.

Raspberry Mousse
2 cps. crushed raspberries 1 tsp. gelatin
2 tbsps. cold water 2 tbsps. whipping cream
1/4 tsp. salt

Crush berries with sugar and salt; let stand until sugar is dissolved. Soak gelatin for 5 minutes in cold water, dissolve by holding over hot water. Stir 1 or 2 tablespoons of berries into gelatin, mixing in well. Let stand a few minutes, then fold into cream which has been whipped to thick custard consistency. Turn into refrigerator drawer and freeze.
